Advertising

Are you looking for a great way to showcase your business? The Addison Park District offers a variety of ways to promote your business through advertising. Throughout the year the Park District produces seasonal program brochures that are circulated to 13,000 households each season with an additional 2,000 available to the public at Park District facilities. The shelf life of the brochure is longer than a newspaper. Because the information within the brochure includes several months' worth of information, people hold it for future reference. This increases the advertising exposure for your business without addition cost. The cover is printed using four colors on an 80# gloss text stock.

Scoreboard advertising is also available at Centennial Park and Nike Park. Hundreds of spectators at baseball and softball games will see your ad. Evening and weekend games are played at all age levels. Here's a great opportunity to reach a variety of people. For more information about advertising, call our Manager of Development and Community Relations at 630-833-0100.
